

September 7, 2010

Bellingham brothers get experimental gene therapy in attempt to save their sight

When 11-year-old Casey Catalan goes on a walk in his Bellingham neighborhood, he hustles to be home before twilight. Once the sun fades, so does Casey's vision, because of a congenital eye disease.

Read the Seattle Times article